

Greening Hohenheim

Greening Hohenheim is a student group of currently about 10 active members who want to raise awareness for sustainability to encourage people to act locally and think globally.

For example, we organize so-called Green Bug Lectures with interesting topics such as sustainable clothing, living without plastic, food waste and others. We also support environmentally friendly projects such as our Mixi-Bike, KeepCups, collection boxes for old pencils, which are then recycled into new products. Before the lock-down situation, we opened a Repair Café, where people could work on our sewing machines, mend and resew clothes, or repair things like cell phones and laptops.
